

ABSTRACT

The present invention discloses a grounding arrangement in a system using same connector for 5- and 12-lead connection in ECG-measurement. If 5-lead configuration is used, the connector elements of the 12-lead connection are used for grounding of lead wire shields. In the system according to the invention grounding of the lead wire shields is performed through current limiting element.